Forecast for Sunday 13 Feb 2022

Weather: Rain becoming heavy and prolonged overnight, but lighter rain by morning. Rain soon turning heavy, then a wet morning with spells of heavy rain and extensive hill fog. Gradually becoming drier through the afternoon, with lighter and perhaps more patchy rain, but not clearing until into the evening. Perhaps some cloud breaks and clear spells in evening, leading to patchy mist or perhaps fog, but showers towards midnight.

Chance of cloud-free hill tops above 600m: Almost nil through the day, becoming 40% in evening

Low cloud and visibility: Moderate or poor through the day, but very poor on most slopes with extensive cloud above 400-500m and some patches lower down, especially in west. Becoming mainly good in evening beneath more broken cloud above 600m, though some mist or fog patches forming.
